source of most of the evils which this moment brood over this prostrate nation. For ten days past this whole republic of freemen from Maine to Georgia, has trembled at the nod of a single man. The constitution must be obeyed. But would to Heaven, that the clause which converts a president into a despot were eraced from that otherwise glorious specimen first resolution will soon be published. of human wisdom. But we do hope that, passing by this extraordinary course of President Tyler, congress will continue unremitted in their endeavors to carry out the other great measures for the public good which are now in progress. Order may at length be brought out of the anachy, suspense and discouragemont which for the moment must prevail at the capitol. It is hoped that the Revenue Distribution and Bankrupt bills may yet be passed, and be sanctioned by the executive branch of the government. The anticipated evils of the veto may be avoided by the wisdom temperance and persevering patriotism of the whigs in congress. THE DROUGHT.

The heavens are as Brass over our heads. For nearly six weeks scarcely a drop of rain has decended. The earth is as dust under our feet. The fields, which generally at this season exhibit the liveliest g een, present the dead brown of winter, Grass hoppers have made dreadful havor. Every species of vegitation disappears pefore them. The crops of oats, corn and poatoes will be immensely injured by their ravages a many places there is a great falling off in grass crops from former years. Corn and potaoes will be far below the average. Cattle and neep find but a scanty subsi-tence.
